

Navy Fires Instrument-Packed Vanguard

Satellite Weighs Over 21 Pounds

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Navy Vanguard rocket blasted into space last night and a reliable scientific source told The Associated Press it hurled a fourth American satellite into orbit.

Less than an hour after the slender Vanguard rode a white-hot trail of flame into a black Florida night sky, the scientists said, "It got the job done."

Ground instruments showed that all three stages of the rocket fired as planned, he said.

Reports from tracking stations down the Atlantic Ocean range which picked up signals from the space traveler in the early stages of its flight left little reason for doubt that the Vanguard had carried out its mission.

The rocket shot aloft at 10:47 p.m. and streaked upward with a 21½-pound satellite equipped to solve the mysteries of ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

Ten minutes later, the Navy reported officially that each of the engines in the rocket fired "in proper sequence."

"It is not yet known whether orbital height and speed have been attained," said the Navy. "This should be determined within 2½ hours."

"Detailed information will originate from the National Academy of Sciences in Washington."

The latest Vanguard rocket was the first in a series of seven designed to shoot man-made moons into orbit as part of this country's contribution to the International Geophysical Year.

The 20-inch gold-plated sphere is tiny compared with Russia's 1½-ton Sputnik III, but it is capable of relaying vital information about the sun back to scientists on earth.

The satellite houses delicate instruments to measure ultraviolet hydrogen—known as Lyman alpha rays—shooting from the sun in solar flares.

Communications

Scientists suspect that sudden bursts of this radiation cause phenomena in the earth's ionosphere which affect weather and radio communications.

The 72-foot Vanguard blasted off from a huge pool of white flame and smoke at 11:47 p.m. (DST).

The sleek rocket, painted olive drab and black, streaked straight up through a thick cloud bank and shot aloft for some two minutes before it disappeared into the black Florida sky.

The rocket was a fading pinpoint of light as it appeared to arch over toward a level flight course a split second before it roared out of sight.

The launching appeared to be very successful to press corps observers stationed a mile and a half from the Vanguard site.

Because of the low overcast, the rocket slipped out of view much earlier than in previous test shoots.

Because of its heavier payload, the rocket was not expected to attain the impressive orbital altitude achieved by Vanguard I March 17.

Vanguard I, a 6.4-inch ball weighing 3½ pounds, flies as high as 2,460 miles and as low as 407 miles. Vanguard II was expected to range between 300 and 700 miles.

Experimental equipment aboard the latest satellite is similar to that used in the last Vanguard that plunged into the Atlantic April 28 after its third stage failed to ignite.

Military Memories

Joint Committee Fills Gap

By Leonard Randolph

IN THE calm stillness of late afternoon, two men dressed in military uniforms finish folding the American flag.

One of them breaks away as the other stands, formally at attention.

The first man walks with measured steps toward the row of relatives near the dark mound of earth that is an opened grave.

Carefully and slowly he presents the flag to the family.

The silence of the cemetery is broken by the long, low sustained notes of "Taps."

A coffin is lowered into the earth.

Another soldier is dead.

And like the millions of men who have served and gone before him, he has been given the burial rites of the military.

For many of the others, this burial has taken place on forgotten soil—Leyte, Kiska, Attu, Anzio, the Black Forest, the lonely stretches of the sea.

For this man, and others like him, the burial takes place in cemeteries formalized with names like Prospect, Mount Zion, Sand Hill or Stroudsburg.

It is a soldier's funeral. And — thanks to the Monroe County Joint Memorial Committee—it is a full military burial.

In providing this service to Monroe County veterans, the Committee has filled a void and bridged a gap between the honor which the nation pays to its servicemen in time of war and the forgetfulness it gives them when the fighting is over.

The Joint Memorial Committee came into being in the minds of a group of local veterans in November, 1946.

It was a comrade's funeral which brought it about. The group of men from the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars came away from the burial determined to form an organization which would see that veterans were given proper ritual.

The committee was officially born on June 1, 1947. Named co-chairmen were Rudolph Blitz Jr. and Vincent Marek.

When the problem of uniforms for committee members was brought up, the local Legion post bought 24 and the VFW purchased uniforms for its members. The committee was made up of men from both organizations.

Originally, the organization concerned itself primarily with the burial "back home" of men who had died overseas and whose bodies were being returned to their own country-side.

There were 24 burials of men who had died overseas that first year. In addition to those, the Joint Memorial Committee provided military services for 18 men who had been veterans and had died at home.

On April 28, 1949 the group held a reorganization meeting at the Thomas P. Lambert VFW Post in Stroudsburg. It was at this meeting that the group first became known as the Joint Memorial Committee.

Its membership, under the new rules, came from the VFW, five Legion posts, the Society of the 28th Division, the Marine Corps Reserve, and Company G, 109th Infantry.

The group also assumed new responsibilities. Among these was the placement of wreaths on the graves of dead servicemen. Organizations to which the veterans had belonged paid for the wreaths.

If the veteran had not belonged to a service organization, the Joint Committee voted to buy one on its own for placement on his grave.

To take care of this expense, members of the committee "chipped in" a quarter each time they attended a meeting. This was a special "wreath fund". But due to the high number of burials each year, it never outgrew the demands placed upon it.

The Committee also agreed to lend assistance to families of veterans in arranging for any benefits due them according to law. In this respect, the Committee voted to work closely with county, state and federal agencies involved in Veterans Affairs.

The late Howard Mount was named general chairman with Earl Palmer co-chairman. Bernie Whitman and George Mosher were main representatives from the VFW and the Legion.

It was at this meeting, too, that the Committee voted to undertake programs for both Veterans Day and Memorial Day. It also assumed the duties of placing flags and caring for graves for the veterans organizations.

The Committee's work for the two programs held annually has been outstanding. Much of its other achievement has escaped public notice — mainly because it takes place, quietly, in the cemeteries where members help to care for graves, place flags and wreaths.

With the exception of Veterans and Memorial Days, few people pay attention to the military dead. As one member of the committee puts it: "It's easy to forget. A man dies in a war and they bring him home and bury him. A week later nobody remembers but his family or his close friends. Then the friends start to forget..."

Uncertainty Rules After Coty's Order

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Pflimlin offered his resignation early today but withdrew the offer on insistence of President Rene Coty.

Coty said a new government should be ready to take over before Pflimlin's resignation could be accepted.

Pflimlin earlier won a surprising and dramatic victory in the National Assembly but apparently was undecided on whether to remain in office.

Sources close to the premier reported he personally wanted to quit — apparently to honor undisclosed promises made to Gen. Charles de Gaulle in a secret meeting yesterday.

Approval

Immediately after the National Assembly approved 408-165, a reform measure to give premiers more power in crises, Pflimlin called his cabinet into session.

"Everything will depend on the cabinet meeting," the source said.

The vote gave Pflimlin a majority of 90 after subtracting the Communist votes. Pflimlin had said he would resign if not given a clear majority of the non-Communist vote.

He rejected the Communist votes outright.

Ministers Resign

But three of his cabinet ministers resigned before the vote was counted, declaring they could not hold office with Communist support.

On a similar line of choice between Pflimlin and De Gaulle last week the assembly voted 475-100 to keep the present government.

De Gaulle said yesterday he was forming a government but Pflimlin refused to budge.

Pflimlin told the assembly it did not De Gaulle must decide whether he should remain in power.

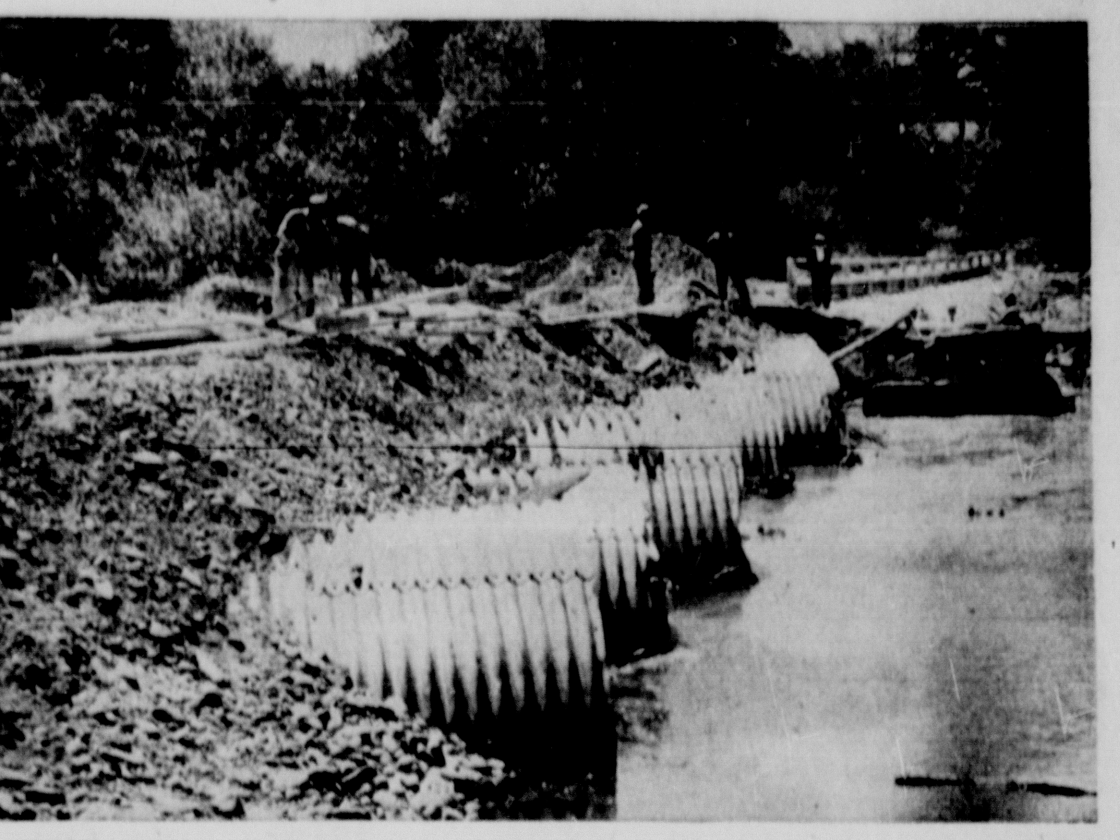

Paris was relatively quiet while the nation waited for parliament's choice. National police stood ready to put down disorders.

Across the Mediterranean, in Algeria, where the Gaullist movement began, 50,000 demonstrators assembled outside the Algiers government house clamoring for De Gaulle — and hoped for news that he was back in the saddle.

Pflimlin's battle for political survival had been complicated by the resignations of Pierre Garret, minister for reconstruction, Paul Ribeyre, industry and commerce, and Roland Boscarry-Manservin, agriculture.

The three have been threatening to resign for several days but each time had been dissuaded by Pflimlin.

De Gaulle normally has little support in the National Assembly.

Congress Backs Ike's Tax Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) just about nailed it down yesterday: There won't be any big tax cut in this session of Congress.

Rayburn and Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark) of the House Ways and Means Committee announced they will go along with President Eisenhower's stand against tax reduction.

Rayburn said the Treasury, deep in red-ink financing, couldn't stand the loss of revenue.

Main Street Bridge To Open Friday

TWO LANES OF THE new four-lane bridge across Pocono Creek on W. Main St. will be opened for traffic Friday morning.

A State Highways Department spokesman said last night the contractor plans to complete work on the additional two lanes while maintaining traffic over the span.

Some curb and sidewalk work also remains to be done, according to the spokesman.

Eisenhower Signs New Postal Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed into law the biggest postal rate increases ever voted by Congress.

The bill also carries the biggest postal pay increase ever voted. Most postal workers will get approximately a 10 percent raise, retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Effective Aug. 1, first class letters will require a 4-cent stamp, instead of 3. Air mail will go up from the present 6 cents to 7, post cards from 2 to 3.

Raises of various size will apply to newspapers, magazines and advertising circulars.

The administration had favored higher rates than Congress voted, and not so large a pay increase.

The Post Office Department operates chronically at a deficit. Eisenhower had asked 700 million dollars more in revenue a year; he got 550 million. He had asked a 6 per cent wage increase costing about 160 million dollars; Congress voted 10 per cent generally, at a cost of 265 million a year.

Complaint

One of Eisenhower's complaints about the postal bill was that while it provides liberal increases for nonsupervisory employees, it greatly distorts the pay structure by giving proportionately lower benefits to the high-level postmasters, supervisors and technical and professional personnel.

Eisenhower said in a statement he was pleased to note the bill expresses approval of the department's "badly needed" modernization program.

But he expressed regret that Congress did not provide additional revenues, as the administration requested, to finance that program. He said he hopes Congress will promptly reconsider that matter, so that the modernization program can go forward.

Indonesia Captures Rebel Pilot

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The army said last night it has captured a former U.S. Air Force officer who had been piloting a rebel bomber. He was identified as Allan Lawrence Pope, 30, of Miami, Fla.

An army spokesman said Pope and an Indonesian bailed out of a rebel bomber shot down May 18 in a raid on a government convoy near Ambon Island.

Spokesman

The army spokesman, Lt. Col. Pirngadie, said Pope was brought to Jakarta and held at an undisclosed place.

He said Pope carried papers showing he is a former U.S. Air Force lieutenant and a former employee of the Civil Air Transport with headquarters in Taipei, Formosa. CAT is the air line founded by Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault of the old Flying Tigers.

Pirngadie said Pope had admitted being paid $100 by rebel leader Lt. Col. Ventje Sumual to fly a U.S.-made B26 against government forces.

U.S. embassy officials said they knew nothing about Pope and had not been told of his capture.

Senate Hopes To Widen 'Iron' Cracks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday urged an economic aid program for the Soviet Union's European satellites to widen the cracks it said had appeared in the Iron Curtain.

Sen. William F. Knowland of California announced he would lead a fight against the proposal on the Senate floor.

"I do not think the granting of mutual aid to the Communist countries can be justified," he declared. Knowland is the Senate's Republican leader.

The issue took shape as the committee reported a $3,712,900,000 foreign aid bill to the Senate. The measure authorizes 235 million dollars less than President Eisenhower asked for the fiscal year starting July 1. It could be cut further on the floor.

Authority

Unprecedented authority is proposed for President Eisenhower to give financial help to Yugoslavia, Poland, East Germany or any other country except the Soviet Union and Red China. The President could do this if he believed it would help make the recipients more independent of Moscow or Peking.

"A series of cracks have appeared in the Iron Curtain," the committee reported.

Air Force Accepts First Delivery Of New Bomber

FARMINGDALE, N. Y. (AP)—The Air Force yesterday received its first delivery of a new type one-man bomber so lethal it could stage a fair-sized war all by itself.

Tabbed the F105 Thunderchief, the jet plane is a flying arsenal of the nation's most potent weapons—nuclear and otherwise. It could deliver a hydrogen bomb to any point in the world within a few hours.

Gen. P. P. Weyland, commander of the Tactical Air Command, and officials of the Republic Aviation Corp. gave this other data on the craft: Capable of traveling at twice the speed of sound and can deliver more firepower than the entire U.S. Air Force during World War II and the Korean War.

Missiles

In addition to nuclear weapons, it is equipped to carry both guided and unguided missiles, clusters of rockets, 4,000 pounds of conventional bombs and napalm (fire) bombs.

It also is armed with a 20mm automatic cannon which can fire 6,000 rounds a minute. One 20mm shell is slightly larger than an ordinary cigar.

Bombs can be dropped from tree-top level or at an altitude of 10 miles with equal accuracy.

The plane's increased firepower, mobility and versatility is expected to compensate for reduction in TAC strength made necessary by rising costs of defense.

As soon as enough Thunderchiefs can be delivered, they will be stationed at bases around the world.

Nation To Honor Two Unknowns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two American servicemen returned from the wars yesterday, unknown but not unsung.

They rested peacefully side-by-side last night on the deck of a sleek gray destroyer. The Stars and Stripes and the open skies were their coverlets.

Two seamen kept constant vigil. Today these honored unknown dead of World War II and the Korean War will be borne to the rotunda of the Capitol. And a nation will begin pouring out its homage and highest honors.

Bronze Caskets

On Memorial Day Friday, a final journey, sad yet triumphant, will take them to the rolling heights of Arlington National Cemetery across the Potomac. There they will rest eternally in honored glory beside their Unknown comrade of World War I.

From a rendezvous Monday off the rain-swept Virginia Capes, the destroyer Blandy bore the Unknown fighting men slowly up the Potomac to a pier at the Naval Gun Factory.

The sun beamed warmly down from a nearly cloudless sky. A soft spring breeze tugged gently at the flags covering the bronze caskets.

An honor guard of 14 sailors in summer white uniforms surrounded the spot amidships.

Cardinal Stritch Remains In State

All day long cardinals, archbishops, bishops, priests and student priests of the Roman Catholic church, members of the diplomatic corps to the Vatican and many others called to pay last respects.

Timely Questions Roadways Cause Problem

PENNSYLVANIA, like other states, is presently undertaking the most aggressive road-building program in its history. To achieve its highway goals, the state finds it necessary to acquire additional land.

"This means," Gov. George M. Leader has pointed out, "that some property owners will be asked to permit the Commonwealth to take whole or part of their property for road-building purposes. I am confident that those who are asked to dispose of their land will find the Commonwealth fair and equitable in the transaction."

To explain the method the state follows in acquiring property for highway right-of-way, a booklet has been prepared by the Department of Highways explaining the procedures as follows:

"What is highway right-of-way?" is the heading used to lead off the booklet. The question is answered in this manner:

"Right-of-way is the term used to describe 'right of passage over another's land.' Consequently, when the Commonwealth takes land for highway right-of-way purposes it is really obtaining 'right of passage' over land on which a public road will ultimately be built.

"This right to acquire land for public purposes is not only an inherent right of the Commonwealth, but was also set forth in the Pennsylvania Constitution. William Penn in his initial land grants required that one-sixth be reserved for public thoroughfares.

"Without this inherent right to supply land for the development of public services, roads, schools, highways, etc., no government could exist."

Other questions and answers

"How does the Commonwealth obtain right-of-way?"

"The method by which the Commonwealth obtains a right of way over private land is through a procedure known as 'eminent domain' (Please turn to page ten)

Safety Improved For Airways

WASHINGTON — Civil Aeronautics Administrator James T. Pyle said yesterday emergency measures will improve air traffic safety but it will be at least three years before a federal airways safety plan begins operating.

Asked if anyone in particular could be blamed for the lack of sufficient air safety, Pyle said, "Let's forget about the past. We've got a hell of a problem in the future."

Two Perish In Delabole Railroad Crash

Wife's Body Found After Two Hours

DELABOLE — A Wind Gap man and his wife were killed Monday night when their car was struck by a freight train at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad grade crossing here.

At first, it was believed only the man was killed. The body of his wife was found about two hours after the accident under the wheels of the diesel engine.

The victims were identified as Lambert and Alura Sandler of Broadway, Wind Gap.

Donald Lambert of Bangor, brakeman on the train, said he saw the Sandler car coming south toward the crossing at a high rate of speed. He shouted for an emergency stop to engineer Claude Jones, also of Bangor.

Lambert told police the brakes were "on hard" as the train reached the crossing. It smashed into the car broadside.

The 12-car freight loaded with cement pushed the car more than 600 feet along the track before the vehicle toppled over into Delabole Creek.

Three children were orphaned by the crash. Mrs. Sandler's two children by a previous marriage lived with their mother, while Sandler's daughter by a previous marriage lives with her mother, Mrs. Marian Sandler of Bangor.

Joint Memorial Committee Fills Major Gap In Proper Funerals For Military Veterans

The Joint Memorial Committee has also arranged active participation in community programs of many kinds.

When local organizations ask for its services, the Committee is eager and willing to take part in the presentation of flags or Flag Day programs.

The group works closely with the Monroe County office of Veterans Affairs. An important part of its program is in the field of education and providing information to the community on the military tradition of this nation and the pride of accomplishment in the services.

The organization is "always ready to help out whenever and wherever it can," according to its spokesman. If it has any complaint at all, it is not because of overwork—it's because not enough people request its services.

The military burial rites, for example, are the Committee's most important function—partly because this service is the most deeply-rooted in the military tradition and is, in some ways, the most meaningful.

Yet time and time again, a Monroe County veteran has gone to his grave without the rites. Why?

Perhaps the most often-repeated reason is that the family is unaware of the Committee's service—perhaps even of its existence. Many times the family forgets to mention contacting the Memorial Committee to the funeral director. At other times, the undertaker neglects to mention the Committee's service.

There is also a mistaken impression among local residents that a man must "belong" to a veterans group to become entitled to a military funeral.

This is not true. George Straka, VFW commander and a member of the Committee, points out that "the Memorial Committee is for all veterans—we don't care whether they belong to the Legion or the Vets or other groups. We have a service to give and we want to give it. The only requirement is that the man must have served in a branch of the Armed Forces."

During recent years the Committee's work has somewhat diminished. When it was first formed, members were participating in as high as three services each day—there were that many war dead "coming home."

Today, the burial service is generally for an older man. The ranks of World War One veterans have begun to decline.

There are fewer services today. But, many times, when there has been a demand for the Committee its leaders have had difficulty finding men to work.

This no longer seems to be true. There is a resurgence of interest in the Memorial Committee and in its work.

Out of this, the Committee hopes, will come a greater understanding of the men who fought and died in our wars and in the meaning of their lives and deaths.

AREA PUBLIC WORKS AND HOUSING PROJECTS which are eligible for federal finance assistance yesterday were discussed by representatives of three Monroe County municipalities and Robert Lundberg of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Development Projects Outlined To Officials

By Don Carlson

REQUIREMENTS for undertaking urban renewal and development projects under federal assistance programs yesterday were outlined to representatives of three Monroe County municipalities.

Explaining necessary steps for federal finance assistance was Robert Lundberg of the Housing and Home Finance Agency—parent group over Urban Renewal, Community Facilities, and other similar administrations.

Conferring with Lundberg on proposed projects were Harold Albert, secretary of the Stroud Township Board of Supervisors; Philip Farber, chairman of the Delaware Water Gap Borough Council; East Stroudsburg Burgess Jesse S. Flory, and Sterling Cramer, East Stroudsburg Borough Manager.

Two major projects discussed by the East Stroudsburg officials were a water filtration facility, and a sewer system and treatment plant.

The Delaware Water Gap municipal official discussed a proposed plan for enlarging current water supply facilities, while the Stroud Township representative discussed new street and road requirements as well as a proposed municipal building.

One of the requirements for assistance, Lundberg noted, was that each community requesting such must have a planning committee or group. All of the municipalities represented have this type body.

The meeting—and others throughout the nation—stemmed from federal government recommendations that public works projects that are needed and fall under the finance assistance program be started.

The recommendation, the government official pointed out, is one of the steps being pressed into action to combat recession. Both federal and state leaders are urging the projects to diminish unemployment and other recession problems.

Under these projects, he continued, employment is offered to those idled in the immediate area—and the end result provided in that locale.

The primary requirement of urban renewal, he explained, is a workable program. The essential objectives required were listed as follows:

One—codes and ordinances (such as housing, building, plumbing, electrical, health and sanitation, air and water pollution, and fire prevention codes) must be adopted and enforced.

Two—a comprehensive community plan or master plan must be developed for zoning of proposed projects, plans for thoroughfares, facilities (such as schools, parks, playgrounds, etc.) locations, and future public improvements.

Three—Neighborhood analysis, (dependent upon number two), calls for identification of the extent and intensity of blighted or slums areas.

Four—Administration organization calls for a firmly established administration responsibility and capacity for enforcement of code and ordinances and for carrying out the proposed projects.

Five—Financing notes the requirements of means for meeting the financial obligation involved in carrying out urban renewal activities.

Lundberg explained that in this objective, the federal contribution may amount to "as much as two-thirds of net project cost." Loans by a community for such projects may go as high as seven per cent of assessed valuation, he reported.

Six—Housing for displaced families requires an objective to facilitate the re-housing programs. Displaced families, he explained, are given first choice on resettlement.

Seven—Citizen participation noted "community-wide participation on the part of individuals and representative citizens' organizations . . . to provide . . . the understanding and support which is necessary to insure success."

Also discussed by Lundberg was a proposal for additional housing under the Monroe County Housing Authority, headed by Rev. Roger C. Stimson.

Rev. Stimson reported that the units built in both Stroudsburg and Stroud Township are near fully completed and have been leased. Other units in East Stroudsburg, he said, are still under construction.

Many of these, he added, have been already leased, and there is still a demand for additional housing. The grant which launched the housing projects limited the number to 100.

Stroud Union 'Move Up'

STUDENTS will "move up" today at Stroud Union High School.

The traditional "moving up day" ceremonies begin at 2:15 p.m.

The program begins with the entrance of grades 9 and 10. Juniors will be escorted to their places followed by the seniors.

There will be a Scripture reading and a prayer. Stephen Drake will deliver the "Challenge of the American Creed."

Among the speakers: Richard Rieger, class will and prophecy; Alfred W. Munson, principal, who will introduce Earl F. Groner, superintendent, who will give the main speech.

Mantle Ceremony

In the mantle ceremony, Rieger, as senior class president, gives the mantle of the senior group to Noel Campbell, junior class president.

Lots Young will read the class poem. The senior song will be directed by Claus Graef with Ethel Lynn Werkheiser as accompanist. Seniors are escorted from the auditorium and juniors advance to their new places.

Jerry Ifft will then direct the junior class song accompanied by Carol Willhoite. The junior class cheer, dedicated to seniors, will be echoed by seniors from the corridors. The new seniors are escorted from the auditorium after the singing of the alma mater.

The school band ensemble, directed by John Pyle, will play. Committees for moving-up are: Richard Strunk, Naomi Budge, will committee; Camille Buzard, Larry Besecker, Elenor Kulp and Richard Rieger, senior prophecy committee.

Rolls Grow Smaller

HARRISBURG (P)—The Public Assistance Department yesterday said 941 less persons were on the public assistance rolls during the first half of May.

Right Direction

"The low point in industrial development in Pennsylvania has been reached, the present situation is most encouraging and Pennsylvania is practically the only state moving in the right direction."

Author of that statement is not a party politician, as one might suppose, but a Pittsburgh industrialist, W. F. Rockwell Jr., president of Rockwell Manufacturing Co.

"The turning point in Pennsylvania's industrial development program occurred last June," he told the Pennsylvania Bankers Assn. convention Monday in Atlantic City.

"The combined educational efforts of the State Chamber of Commerce, newspapers throughout the Commonwealth, and various groups and individuals have succeeded in bringing about the legislative action required to help Pennsylvania win new industry."

The specific action, he explained, "was the retention—for the first time in 20 years—of the manufacturers' exemption from the capital stock tax."

Other barriers to industrial expansion were eliminated, included several small nuisance taxes and levies on machinery, tools and equipment used in manufacturing.

Mr. Rockwell predicted a bright future for industry in Pennsylvania, but warned of overconfidence. "Regardless of taxes," he said, "every state in the nation is going all out to attract industry, so we find ourselves in competition with every other state."

Pennsylvania has slipped in recent years from its once-lofty position as a manufacturing state, partially because its tax climate was not as attractive as a great many states which sought to encourage industrial growth of a large scale.

It is good news, therefore, to learn that Pennsylvania's industrial outlook is pointing up—thanks to a revision of its tax structures as they relate to manufacturing.

Graduates Will Find Jobs

This isn't the best of years for graduating from school, but to be a member of the class of 1958 isn't a tragedy, either.

The current forecast is that there will be jobs for all young people in this year's graduating classes, before the end of summer "provided they seriously want to work and set reasonable standards." Any young people who think of that proviso as a joker have trouble ahead—and they would have in almost any kind of times.

The advice of the state employment office is good advice: start shopping around now; don't exclude jobs that may not seem ideal, and don't be discouraged if a job doesn't turn up immediately.

It isn't new advice, but it's sound. It's been true, class after class, generation after generation, for a long time. Nothing has happened to our economy. It has its ups and downs, and those who graduate in a "down" can't be distinguished from the children of an "up", after a few years have passed.

Robert S. Allen Reports ...

Report Puzzles McElroy

Washington—Defense Secretary Neil McElroy is having a difficult time producing the "large, bold, firm planning" on missiles and a "telltale" that he promised months ago. His three top Pentagon assistants in charge of these supremely important fields are bogged down in a welter of official gobbledegook.

Directed by McElroy early this year, under Senate Armed Services Committee prodding, to formulate a comprehensive and cohesive missile-space program, these three officials have finally made a report to him that is a maze of bafflegab.

If it says anything, neither McElroy nor anyone else has been able to figure out what it is.

Consisting of three pages of single-spaced typing and one sheet that is as incomprehensible as the rest of the document, this result of prolonged cogitating and conferring has been tossed back to these three officials with demands for an explanation of what it means — if anything!

Authors of this remarkable whodunit are: Assistant Defense Secretary Paul Foote, in charge of Research and Engineering; William Holaday, director of Guided Missiles; and Roy Johnson head of the Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Senate Armed Services Committee, after studying this perplexing report, have reached two conclusions:

Three Pentagon officials were either unable or unwilling to draft a plan to coordinate and integrate the rival multi-billion dollar missile-space activities of the armed services.

To cover this up, a report was submitted which uses a lot of high-faloot language but says nothing of any consequence.

Following are publishable highlights of this curious document:

"Problem: To delineate the relationships between the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Research and Engineering), the Director of Guided Missiles and the Director, Advanced Research Projects Agency."

"Discussion: The relationship between all three individuals is one of close interdependence from the standpoint of keeping each other informed as to the breakthroughs, advances and requirements in their respective fields. The Director of Guided Missiles and the Director of ARPA probably have a closer and considerably different relationship than either has with the ASD (R & E) because many of the vehicles and components developed for military weapons systems under the direction of the Director of Guided Missiles may be utilized by the Director of ARPA."

"As long as the total effort in weapons research and development is adequate to meet the weapons requirements of the military services and the quasi-military requirements for outer space exploration, there will be no problem. If the effort is not adequate, then priorities will have to be established by the Secretary of Defense."

Taking No Chances—The grave French crisis is having direct and telling effect on President Eisenhower's legislation to give nuclear secrets and materials to U.S. allies. As an immediate result of the explosive French situation, the Joint Atomic Committee has written a provision into this legislation for the express purpose of safeguarding against it.

The committee, which is extensively rewriting the President's bill, added this new provision at an unannounced meeting. As previously reported in this column, the committee has decided to give the President the authority he wants to "exchange" nuclear secrets and material with allies—but is tying a big string to that.

Under the committee's version, the President would be permitted to negotiate such agreements, but only with the express approval of Congress. That is, Congress would retain veto power.

Now the committee has added to that restriction another safeguard aimed at France. This latest provision reads as follows:

"There shall be no transfer of source, by-product or special nuclear material for research on, development of, production of, or use in atomic weapons unless the cooperating nation has made substantial progress in the development of atomic weapons."

This language was adopted by the Joint Committee after word from the Atomic Energy Commission that Britain is the only ally which can meet this requirement.

Chalk It Off

Dear Abby: I had a coffee table in my house and my sister-in-law admired it and admired it and admired it. I finally took the hint and gave it to her. Then she turned around and SOLD it to her sister. I don't care about the few dollars, but I think this was a cheap trick. I want to buy it back from her sister, but my husband says to forget the whole thing. Should I?

BOILING OVER

Dear Boiling: Your sister-in-law used extremely poor judgment. If I were you I would forget it and charge it to experience.

Dear Abby: I came across an old Japanese magazine and it says that you should take some salt (about one tablespoon) wet it a little and rub it where you want to reduce. Some people might think it is a joke, but my stomach was coming out for a long time and now it is getting smaller.

K. F. J.

Dear Abby: The man who thinks he gives his teen-aged son an allowance that is "MORE THAN PLENTY" sounds just like my father. Some fathers forget that times have changed since they were teen-agers. If a boy wants to take a girl to the movie and buy her a hamburger and a malt afterwards, he can't do it on fifty cents like his old man did. Will you please remind my father and the fathers of other teen-aged boys that the cost of living has gone up.

LIVING MODERN

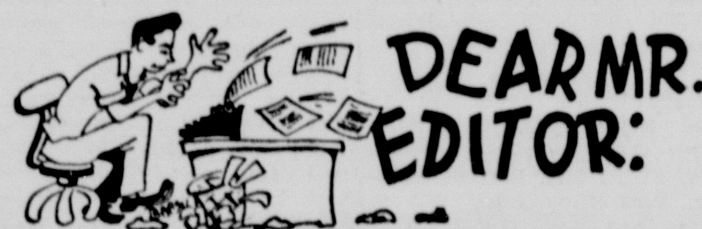

Dear Living: The father who is paying the grocer, the butcher, the dentist, the doctor, the insurance man and the tax people doesn't need ME to remind him that the cost of living has gone up.

Dear Abby: My problem is a young woman who works for my husband. She is 26 years old and has already been through two husbands. She drives her own car to work all right, but my husband has to follow her home in his car after work to be sure she gets home safely. She invites him in for a cup of tea (he has ulcers so I don't have to worry about it being anything else) afterwards. Sometimes it is seven-thirty before he gets home for dinner. Do I have to put up with this? PATIENT WIFE

Suggests Some Other Day

Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Editor: Memorial Day, a day dedicated to our war dead and other loved ones, is not a day to solicit votes to further the interest of some politician.

With all due respect to Gov. Leader and those who sponsor him, we would like to suggest that there are more suitable days available to dedicate the so-called Thruway of the Stroudsburgs.

Almost any other day would do for this purpose and we suggest that he do it with the few responsible for it as his audience. You can be sure that the families who are to lose their homes will not be present. The vast majority of the people of Monroe County wanted a day by pass they could use when necessary and which would siphon off the thru traffic and were not interested in making a dollar or so out of it.

Now that the small minority of selfish people have had their way in this, it is now their wish to further insult the intelligence of the people of Monroe County with its dedication on day held sacred by all decent people.

As veterans we are opposed to the action taken by the Joint Memorial Committee of Monroe County, of all people, these persons should realize the purpose of Memorial Day and we deny their right to issue such an invitation in the name of all veterans.

If Gov. Leader is sincere and wishes to confine himself to the dedication of our war dead he is welcome. It is difficult for us to believe that Monroe County has people so devoid of feeling that they would do or attempt to do anything which in anyway could detract from the honor we owe to our war dead.

Memorial Day is a day dedicated to those who died in the service of our country. A day dedicated to the wounded and crippled in mind and body who still suffer. To those of us who were privileged to have served with them, men who have made the supreme sacrifice so that we could remain a free people, all this great country of ours possess today, all of its people, owe more than they can ever repay to those men who laid down their lives so we, who are less worthy, may live.

Have all these men suffered and died in vain? Have the people of Monroe County so soon forgotten their own war dead that they will allow a day set aside to honor them be used for political purposes. If this be true, if it were possible for it to be true the time for the H-Bomb to fall is long past due.

If there still remains the least shred of decency in the minds of these politicians they will be ashamed in to allowing Memorial Day to remain the day when we care pay humble tribute and honor to our dead comrades and to those who were near and dear to us in the way we have done in the past with proper reverence and honor due them.

Do not try and dishonor our war dead. We are proud to have served with them. We are grateful for what they have done for us. We honor them above all others. We who have served, challenge the right of any person or persons to do otherwise. We bow our heads in shame for the people who made it necessary for us to write this letter.

The following would like to have this printed in your paper: Stanley Gordon, Victor Thulin, Chester Kemp, Robert E. Lambert, Arlington Gorman, Clarence J. Detrick, Elmer M. Storm and Harry T. Decker.

Jim Riley Says:

There Was Plenty Of Conversation

Attending last Saturday's festivities put on by the Scranton Press Photographers at Mount Pocono's High Point Inn was a real treat.

George Colovos, the newest resort owner in the Pocono Mountains, did a masterful job of handling nearly 400 people, when it is understood that this was the first crowd of the season and much larger than expected.

George, with the advice of his vastly experienced father, Christ Colovos, has turned in a fine job of preparing High Point Inn for the coming Summer season. They have made many improvements.

It was a real treat to chat with James Hanlon, mayor of Scranton, and Joan Weber, nationally famous songstress.

Turning back the pages of time with Mount Pocono Burgess and Mrs. Gerald Possinger was delightful. We also brought our conversation up to the present and even propelled it into the future.

Seeing Perc Lempke and Jackie Raddin, both of New York, once again was one of the highlights of the day. Perc and Jackie were two of the best fans the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos, a class "D" baseball team, ever had.

It brought back old times to hear the ring of George Graff's wit and the sting of his "puns." The spiraling smoke from his cigars also recalled many happy days of the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hal-lock, the latter couple used to own this same resort, chatted with The Daily Record gang prior to the beauty pageant on the lawn.

The Record gang consisted of Bobby Westbrook, Ruth Brown, Leonard Randolph, Les Carlton and myself.

Joe Whalen and Ed Somers were on hand for WVPO, as were John and Sallie Ferrebee. Ed is no doubt the expert judge of beauty in the crowd, as he came nearest to picking the official finish. Sallie was tops in the group for stories. Get her to tell you the one about the man who was hung up to dry.

"Chud" Bensinger and LeRoy Dengler were the picture of relaxation as they sunned themselves near the edge of the pool.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Strunk were on hand to represent the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and Vacation Bureau. Mr. and Mrs. Louis DePaul were on hand from the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Some of our most interesting bits of conversation were with Linda Marling, Scranton, and Mrs. George Raish, Tannersville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller were two interested spectators and dinner guests. Mrs. Jesse James was among the most interested of the large crowd at the beauty pageant. There were other local people present, but their names escape me at the moment.

It was a great day, even though I was among the large group of very disappointed people present for the program.

I still think Monroe County had a winner without any doubt a second or third place. But — my vote didn't count.

Inside Washington

Broaden Ike-Mac Agenda

Washington — Because of the unexpectedly rapid development of critical situations abroad, President Eisenhower's talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Washington next month are to be broadened in scope.

The President and the prime minister originally had intended to talk principally about a joint Anglo-American approach to a possible summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The agenda is being broadened, however, according to administration sources, to cover the French crisis in Algeria, and untoward events in other areas where both Britain and the United States have a stake.

Summerfield Leaving? — There is some speculation in Washington that Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield may be the next member of President Eisenhower's Cabinet to resign.

Any decision, according to informants, will be delayed until after Congress enacts the postal increase bill which Summerfield has fought for ever since he took office in 1953.

However, once the postal legislation is passed, Summerfield may feel that he has done enough to put postal operations on a business-like basis and retire to private life.

George Sokolsky Says ...

New Magazine Born

I have come across a new magazine, "The New York Economist." Vol. 1, No. 1 of which is most interesting because it seems to be devoted to downgrading the foreign policy of the United States and economic conditions in the United States.

Granted that neither is too jolly at the present moment, the editor of this publication, Dr. Stephen Urban, seems to see all black, much too black. As his name was not known to me, I looked him up.

Dr. Stephen Urban was born Oct. 22, 1920, as Boleslav Stephen Koska in Ostrava, Czechoslovakia. He came to the United States on Feb. 26, 1951 and was naturalized on June 4, 1957, at which time he petitioned the U. S. District Court to change his name to Stephen Urban. He is stated to have received a doctorate in economics from the University of Frankfurt in Germany.

In "An Introduction from the Publisher," Dr. Urban says: "During the past two years, we have tried everything including paid advertisements to induce the country's most influential press to alert public opinion, so that the present economic decline (called 'mild' recession, but developing rapidly into a serious depression) might be averted."

"This decline already costs and will increasingly cost the happiness of many families whose providers are losing jobs and income. Similarly, our experience has been that during this period the press and paid advertisements have advanced the cause of more armaments, nuclear bomb testing, 'limited' wars and 'map-making exercises' in the Middle East etc., while sober rational analyses to diminish world tensions and thus the danger of war, limited or unlimited, were ignored and/or suppressed."

Well Heeled

The fact of the matter is that Dr. Urban who is reported to have come to the United States in 1951 from Germany as a displaced person had published an advertisement in the "Wall Street Journal," in 1958, which would indicate that he is well-heeled financially. His private address is 926 Fifth Ave., which indicates prosperity. Dr. Urban has achieved much in the United States during seven years — years of very high taxes.

I have wondered precisely what this paragraph means: "A most curious twist in history occurred through the intellectual power of man's brains, his capacity to think and construct, not to kill and destroy."

"Due to our own shortsightedness, the world, led in this regard by our ideological adversaries, is forcing us to re-

43) found itself thrashing in similar circumstance — fighting a tooth and nail battle with a Democratic auditor general and a Democratic state treasurer.

The pattern at that time was much the same as it is now but with a Republican auditor general and a Republican state treasurer.

It may well be true that much of the haggles-points currently being brought out — just as they were during the James Administration — are partisan in intent and conception, but the salient fact remains that a majority of the criticisms stood up then and are standing up now under statutory scrutiny.

Circumvention of legislative intent always has been a seemingly strong counterpart of any administration, whether Republican or Democratic.

Auditing Powers

With the state's chief legal officer, the attorney general, appointed at the pleasure of the administration in power, the checkpoint of administrative activity, or that of the executive branch, must fall elsewhere.

Under the circumstances the logical point is with the two fiscal officers, the state treasurer and the auditor general (both of whom are elected to office)—with the auditing powers of the latter the strong point.

Up to the present the running feud between the Auditor General and the administration has been largely overlooked.

Underneath there is far more than meets the eye. Examples of fiscal hot-footing were cited yesterday in this column. Here is a non-fiscal illustration of the dogtrotting role now being played by the Auditor General's Department:

For the past several months there has been much on-the-side commotion between the auditor general and the administration over the use of the civil service system by the various departments under the Governor's jurisdiction.

AG is interested from the standpoint that it has the chore of approving pay and expenses for these public servants—even though they are operating under the civil service system.

A check of the records shows that hundreds of these so-called civil service employees have been working as "provisional" civil service employees.

A "provisional" appointment is regarded generally as one made by the Civil Service Commission (but usually by the department head instead — with later concurrence by the commission) without permanent status and good for 90 days when it must be filled by one of a top three from a civil service examination list.

But the AG has found that a host of these provisionals have been serving for more than a year—with no examinations given and no attempt to fill the jobs with civil service qualified appointees.

Administration aides cried "foul" and pooh-poohed the charges—but over the week end several hundred pink dismissal slips went out to "provisionals." Sidelight: Some of the recipients never were given a chance to take a civil service examination.

With the Legislature out of session, someone has to ride herd regardless of who holds the administration wand. The present case and that of Democrats twenty odd years ago illustrates what can and should happen.

What Young People Think

Teen-Agers
To Work On
VacationsBy Eugene Gilbert
President, Gilbert Youth
Research Co.

SPURRED by recession, a growing number of America's teen-agers are turning their back on the old saw that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

The youngsters already have begun their annual quest for vacation jobs—more than usual, earlier than usual, and in something of a frenzy.

"Man, if you don't get in there and get at least a promise of a job," said 16-year-old Ralph Hornbush of Milwaukee, "the next guy will have gone and done it before you can blink an eyelash."

But even the early birds are finding the market tough. The good summer jobs, said Ted Royal, 15, of Miami, Ohio, are "all going to grown men who are out of their regular work but still have to support their families."

Jan Krilo, 17, of Minneapolis, said he had worked the last two summers for a construction company. "It's good exercise and I was looking forward to doing it this year," he said. "But, no—they've got too much help as it is and not enough work contracted. So I'm out."

Not Just For Fun

Interviews with 760 teenagers in 25 localities across the country showed 66 percent of the boys and 35 percent of the girls expect to hold some kind of job this summer. This is a considerable increase over last year when 57 percent of the boys and 26 percent of the girls worked.

A sizeable number, 42 percent of the boys and 26 percent of the girls, already have lined up jobs.

Those who do not expect to work were vague about their vacation plans. "Goof off" was their most frequent answer.

Almost one in every four boys and 16 percent of the girls acknowledged that vacation work is more necessary for them this year than last.

"With things as they are now, I'll have to give part of my summer earnings to the family," said Albert Salvatore, 18, of the Bronx, N.Y. "My father hasn't been working for some time now."

A high school junior in Baltimore, Thomas Biggs, 17, said: "Vacation job? That was before. In June I've got to go out and find a permanent job. No senior year for me in September."

Fully 29 percent of the youngsters plan to use vacation income to give their folks a hand with the family financing.

"Listen," said Fred Masson, a Newark, N.J., 17-year-old, "what have I got to do with my money that's anyway near as important as my parents'?"

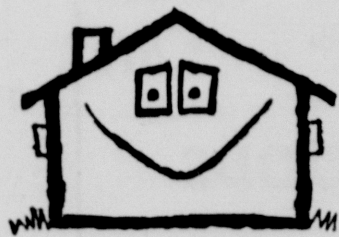

Girls Tell Boys To Work

"They haven't said anything yet about needing my salary this summer," said 17-year-old Sandy Roma of Garden City, N.Y. "But in case they do, it will be there for them."

Others feel their vacation income is theirs to have and to hold.

"I can't spare my vacation

the home!

Houses are like people. The healthier they are, the happier they are.

How about your house? Is it a happy home for your family, free of small but dangerous flaws, safe from the ever-present threat of blight and decay? Make sure it is by making timely repairs. Remember that blight needs only a tiny toe hold to grow and spread.

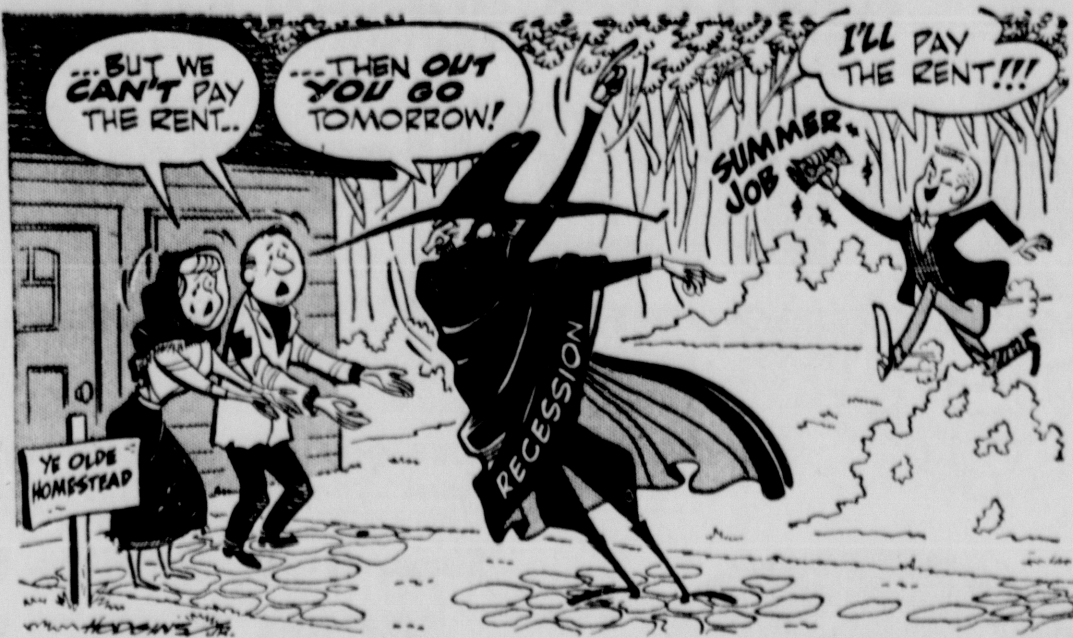

Stay alert. Protect your home, guard your neighborhood. Carelessness and neglect are contagious. One shabby home leads to another. A few blighted houses can start a shum... raise your taxes, rob you of school and business opportunities, impair local facilities of all kinds.

Keep your property in healthy shape. Make timely repairs at home... then join your neighbors in community-improvement groups. Safeguard your family's future now by writing for practical, effective information to:

money," said Gary Sperling, 17, of Philadelphia. "My folks can't need it as much as I do for expenses on my car and other things."

Bill Shatz, 18, of Amityville, N.Y., said flatly: "It's my money and they'll have to pry me away from it."

The boys—9 out of 10—feel both boys and girls should work during vacations. The girls—9 out of 10—feel the boys should work. Only about 6 out of 10 girls think girls should.

"Why shouldn't girls work along with boys?" asked 17-year-old Michael Stav of Chicago. "They're just as strong—even if they're not as intelligent."

But the girls feel they do more part-time work spread over the year. "I baby-sit all during the school year," said 16-year-old Elaine Budd of Syracuse. "That's enough for me."

"I earn some money while school is on, and I expect to continue in the summer," said Toni Moran, Miami Beach 16-year-old. "But a full-time job is not for me."

Ready For Responsibility

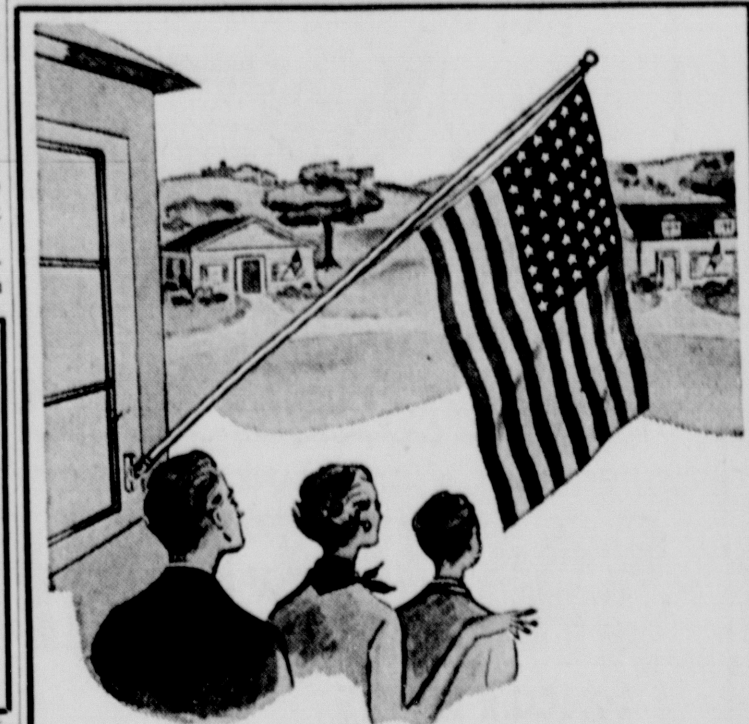

Many of the working girls, however, find work rewarding for its own sake.

Carol Curtis, 16, of New York, said, "The most marvelous time of my life was last year when I worked at a resort in the country for the whole summer. I can't wait to get back in June."

Generally, the girls felt vacation work is necessary for boys to provide them with car and dating money and experience

Insurance Representatives
To Be Present At Seminar

FIVE REPRESENTATIVES of the Stroudsburg branch office of the Prudential Insurance Co. will attend an advanced-underwriting seminar at Asheville, N. C., June 2 through 6. They are W. E. Schlough and Walter J. Gretkowski, staff managers; Samuel J. Coco, H. F. Delp and Dawson L. Seese, agents.

Each delegate was invited to participate in the seminar on the basis of his sales record.

AFTER 12 years of marketing Calso gasoline on the East Coast, The California Oil Company this week begins a two-year conversion program which will drop the Calso brand name in favor of the "Chevron" gasoline brand.

During the first phase of the program, in 1958, emphasis will be placed on introducing the "Chevron" brand to East Coast motorists throughout the company's 13-state marketing area. In 1959, the second phase of the changeover will be completed with elimination of all Calso identification at the 2100 retail outlets handling the company's products.

Although new to the East, "Chevron" gasoline has long been marketed in the Far West, and in Alaska and Hawaii, where it is sold by more than 12,000 service stations.

To promote the introduction of this new gasoline, The California Oil Company has budgeted some $2,000,000 to be spent in various advertising media, with particular emphasis on newspaper space and television commercials. The name "Chevron" has been derived from the company's red, white and blue identifying chevron hallmark.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito has told Moscow that Yugoslavia will not join the Soviet-led bloc, and further attacks on this country can harm the Soviet's prestige, Communist sources said yesterday. Steels Show Strength In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Some steels and other selected issues showed strength late yesterday but the stock market as a whole spent its second straight session in a thoroughly irregular condition.

Prices of key stocks were a fairly even mixture of plus and minus signs. A few special situations added variety.

Early in the day an unusually large number of stocks opened unchanged. There was a slightly lower trend at the start and some stronger signs near the close but generally speaking yesterday's market was a standoff.

Volume dropped to 2,180,000 shares compared with 2,500,000 Monday and was the highest since May 13.

Technically, the market was in a tough area of resistance, just below the year's highs. No big stimulus came to move it decisively.

Agreement

Bipartisan agreement that there should be no big anti-recession tax cut came as no shock to Wall Street as this has come to be a stale subject. The French crisis continued to inject a note of uncertainty. The rise in steel output for the fourth straight week was encouraging. So was the new boost in copper prices by custom smelter. Steel shares were helped also by short covering, brokers said.

The popular market averages were depressed a bit by a number of key stocks going ex-dividend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 30 cents to $169.30 with the industrials down 40 cents, the rails down 70 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Of 1,163 issues traded, losers totaled 488 and gainers 419. New highs for the year were 73 and new lows 5.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 8 rose, 4 fell and 3 were unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular on volume of 800,000 shares compared with 830,000 Monday.

Graduation At Adventist School Today

GUEST SPEAKER at the Seventh-day Adventist Elementary School graduation exercises today at 7:30 p.m. will be Elder Roland Shorter of Blue Mountain Academy, Hamburg, Pa.

Mr. Shorter's address will be entitled "In Orbit," the theme of which he said, is slanted to help our young people see how the harmonious development of their physical, mental and spiritual powers, through a Christian education will give them a preparation that they may be "In Orbit" with God's plan for them today as well as tomorrow.

Prior to coming to the Hamburg school in 1957 to act as Bible instructor, Shorter spent 14 years in India, seven as business manager of the Adventist Hospital at Surat and the other seven he was engaged in educational and youth work.

The graduation program will open with a hymn and prayer, followed by the "Welcome" given by DeEtte Benninger.

Hope Okuno will respond with "Appreciation to Our Parents," Brenda Martz will present "The Class Aim" and Harry Banks will give the "Valedictory" address.

During the course of the program piano and marimba selections will be given by class members who are students of Mrs. W. R. Bornstein. Elder William R. Bornstein will present the diplomas.

Questions Answered On Property Settlement

'condemnation.' After the plans for highway construction have been completed and approved, they are signed by the Governor.

"Upon this signing, the land over which the highway is to be placed is 'condemned' thereby giving the Commonwealth the right to then use the land for public purposes.

"Immediately following the condemnation, persons whose property is affected by the proposed construction will be notified of the action, either by personal contact or letter from representatives of the Department of Highways. Right-of-way agents will call upon you to answer any questions and to assist you in the settlement of your claim."

"Why are they taking my property instead of other people's?"

"Before the Commonwealth decides on any specific location for the construction of a highway, many factors must be considered. The final decision is made only after the department is satisfied that the route selected comes closest to accomplishing the greatest public good with the least amount of private injury or inconvenience. To aid the Department of Highways in making this decision is the result of many engineering and economic studies.

"There are Advance Planners using all of their statistical facts and knowledge to estimate the highway needs of the future.

"There are Statisticians finding out how we wish to travel and where we desire to go.

"There are Design Engineers selecting the types of highways and structures that will protect our lives.

"There are Economists assembling facts to measure the proposed highway's ability to satisfy the needs of the community and result in its continued prosperity."

"How much will I be paid for my property?"

Settlements are based on the local market value of the property needed for public improvement. If the entire property is taken, you will receive the same price that would have been paid if you sold it yourself or retained a realtor to dispose of it for you.

"You are not required to pay any premium or commission. When the Commonwealth acquires your property, you receive the entire purchase price. Liens, mortgages and other encumbrances are handled as in a private transaction."

"What will I receive if only part of my property is taken?"

"If only part of your property is taken, you will receive the difference in value before the taking and the value after the taking."

"Who determines the market value of my property?"

"The Department of Highways employs independent licensed real estate appraisers from your own locality to assist it in determining the valuation of your property both before and after the taking. These appraisers are your friends and neighbors and are entirely familiar with the value of property in the community. You can be assured that you will be paid a fair price for your property."

"Can I move my house to another location?"

"If your house or structure is placed entirely within the area condemned for right of way purposes, the District Right-of-Way Agent will advise you of the amount the Department considers a fair and equitable settlement. This amount will be based on the fact that your structure is a total loss to you.

"Your house or structure will then be advertised for sale by bids if, in the judgment of the District Right-of-Way Department, it is capable of being relocated to another site removed from the required right of way line of the road.

"You, the original owner, will have the opportunity of bidding for the structure and if your bid is the highest received by the Department you will be permitted to relocate your structure.

"Of course, all costs of moving will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Details of the necessary procedure will be explained by the District Agent who contacts you.

"If your structure occupies only a portion of the required right of way and you desire to relocate, you can inform the district agent of your desire and make an agreement with the district office allowing you to relocate the structure."

"Do I have to accept what the Department of Highways offers me?"

"No. If you are not satisfied with the settlement offered, you may file a petition with the local Court of Quarter Sessions for the appointment of a board of view to determine your damages. If you are not satisfied with the award rendered by the Board of View, you may proceed further and have your case heard before a jury in the County Court of Common Pleas."

"Will I have to vacate my property?"

"Only property owners who have actual dwellings condemned will be called upon to vacate their property. Ample time will be allowed in order to permit persons to move to a new location. Do not be stampeded by rumors. Right-of-way personnel will keep you fully advised of all developments."

"How can I buy a new home before I am paid for my old one?"

"To lighten the financial burden and help property owners find other suitable houses, the department will pay up to 75 per cent of the appraised value of the condemned property as soon as the appraisal can be made. These payments will be based solely on the appraisal value of the property and will be made irrespective of whether or not the owner has agreed to a final settlement of his claim. On these advance payments, mortgages and other liens will be honored as in cases of final settlement."

"Who will contact me?"

Personnel from the district office in which your property is located will contact you shortly after condemnation. Your cooperation with these men will expedite the handling and settlement of your claim."

Monroe County is one of six counties in District Five, with headquarters at Allentown. T. K. Rothermund is district engineer and Arlington E. Miller the right-of-way engineer. Theodore S. Henderson is an assistant district engineer.

Dispute Rages Over Service Of Gas

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pittston Gas Co. yesterday said it should be allowed to serve communities in a disputed Lackawanna-Luzerne county area because it was "a logical extension of our present distribution system."

The Scranton-Spring Brook Water Co., which has filed a competing application to furnish natural gas service in the area, contended, however, that the Public Utility Commission should choose the firm best qualified to serve.

Arguments
The arguments were heard by the full commission Tuesday as attorneys for the two firms summed up testimony given in previous hearings. The PUC took the case under advisement. The area in question includes the boroughs of Avoca, DuPont and Duryea and Exeter Twp. Pittston earlier conceded its competitor's right to furnish natural gas to Old Forge.

BUDDY POPPY proceeds help the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States maintain its national home for veterans' orphans and widows at Eaton Rapids, Mich. This is the only home of its kind owned and operated by any veteran organization. Inset, Venetia Stephenson, Warner Brothers' Hollywood star, is the 1958 'National Buddy Poppy Girl.'

Buddy Poppy Sales Aid VFW Home

"THE VETERANS of all our nations wars receive direct and prompt aid from the proceeds of the annual Buddy Poppy Sale conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars," Commander George Straka, of VFW Post 2540, explained yesterday.

"Aided by its Ladies Auxiliary, the organization will direct this year's annual Buddy Poppy campaign here in Monroe County today and tomorrow, the commander continued.

"We are proud of the fact that, although VFW membership is limited to the men who served this country in foreign lands, we extend the many benefits offered to all men who served in the armed forces, even though they may never have left the continental limits of the United States," Straka added.

Heavy Sales

This year, the VFW expects to sell 17 million Buddy Poppies throughout the country. Countless thousands of needy veterans will benefit.

They will receive help in filing claims with the Veterans Administration, the destitute will get financial assistance, deserving orphans and widows of the deceased will be aided, and some will be given a new life at the unique VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"We are confident," concluded Straka, "that this year, as in the past, the patriotic citizens of Monroe County will go all out to put the annual Buddy Poppy sale well over the top."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 4. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Where do men wear their medals and mementos, now that the pocket watch seems to have gone forever? A watch chain, especially when suspended across an ambassadorial front, used to be such an impressive place to hang Phi Beta Kappa keys, lodge insignia or gold toothpicks.

Now a discreet pin in a buttonhole, a seal ring, and perhaps a pair of hobby cufflinks, or the clip, and the man's practically over-dressed.

It was the thoughts of father's day that started me worrying. You can always give a mother a charm for her bracelet—a disc for each child or grandchild, a tiny gold scissors to remind her of the dresses she's made for you or the socks she's darned.

But fathers don't even have vest pockets anymore to carry mementos around with them. And probably they're just as pleased. They can remember the bills they've paid without a miniature check-book to remind them and the fights over the family car without a miniature gold jalopy.

But it does point up the fact that there are very few practical things you can buy for men. Socks, ties and shaving lotion don't stack up very high compared to the gay and giddy presents you can give women.

Do You Want To Travel Or Just To Run Away?

By Anne Heywood

The things we run away from, we run into.

Everybody that I have ever known who left a job because of office politics has found another job full of office politics, too. The committee chairman in a woman's club who finds her committee lazy and shiftless, resigns, and joins another committee, finds the other committee just as lazy and shiftless.

Good Idea
For that reason, it's always a good idea, before leaving one job for another, to be sure that we have ourselves well in hand, first. Nine times out of ten, if we correct whatever we find wrong with ourselves, we will end up liking the job so much better that the desire to leave will vanish.

I think of this whenever people write me for information about jobs that will take them traveling.

Just An Escape

The desire to travel—and it usually is stronger in the spring than any other time of the year—may be a valid and sensible decision. But it is much more apt to be a desire to run away from something. However, if we run away from it, we are bound to run right to it again. I was talking about this the other day with Abraham Cohen, who is in charge of helping to find professional and technical workers for Israel.

Many of the people whom he interviews are well qualified people who want jobs in far away Israel for good and sound reasons. But many others are wishful thinkers who find great difficulty in getting along in their jobs in this country and feel that going far away and starting again will revolutionize their lives.

How can you tell if your desire to travel is a valid one?

Here are some questions that might give you a hint:

1. Do you like being on your own away from friends, relatives and familiar surroundings?

2. Do strange foods that you have never heard of before appeal to you, or are you happier sticking to things you know agree with you?

3. Do you like people whose point of view violently differs from yours on politics, religion, marriage, art and literature?

4. Would you say that your life has been, on the whole, a happy one?

Learn To Be Happy
Unless you can answer "yes" to these questions, the chances are that you had better learn to be happy in your present environment before you try to take on a new one.

If your desire to travel is a valid one, and you would like to learn more about job possibilities outside of the country, send me a long stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of this newspaper and I will send you my list of books on jobs that take you traveling.

Families get tired of plain white bread! Serve cracked wheat, pumpernickel and rye sometimes.

If you like styles becoming to YOU . . . you should be coming to ME!

The Wyckoff Shopper

After six years on radio, I have learned not to be too badly taken aback if one of my scheduled guests fails to appear. But nevertheless I was a bit startled to arrive at WVPO just a few minutes before broadcast time Monday morning and not find Bobby Westbrook. We had talked by telephone Sunday afternoon, and she had assured me she'd be there, unless something unforeseen occurred. Of course, I told myself as I telephoned her residence, the life of any journalist is bound to be full of "unforeseen" occurrences. If it were not true, reporting would hardly be the exciting job it is, and newspaper reading would not be nearly so interesting.

Bobby arrived just a few minutes after air time, and confided later that her heart was pounding like mad. She'd been confused as to the hour, and had leisurely picked up her mail, stopped for red lights, and planned her day. It wasn't until she heard John Meunier say, "It's 9:45 and time for the Wyckoff Shopper," that she began tearing along—panicky because there was no parking space anywhere.

I feel, as I have often said in the past, that our newspaper is particularly fortunate in its writers. And it should be a matter of civic pride when one of them is honored on a statewide basis. Bobby was delighted with her award . . . and pleased too that our Walter Logan, of the Wyckoff picture framing department, had framed it for her as his personal gift.

After the broadcast, I talked with Mr. Wyckoff and he mentioned having heard the interview. "I hurried, hoping to get to the studio in time to express my personal congratulations," he said. "But I didn't make it." Even so, I am sure it will be a great satisfaction to Bobby to know that EVERYONE joins in the acclaim.

Notes, notes, notes . . . enough of them to make a song! One from Dorothy Strauser, Sterling's wife and quite an artist in her own right, saying thanks for the radio comments about her "paintings in cloth" shown at the YMCA recently . . . another from Dr. M. J. Leitner, asking if I'd remind everyone that once again the General Hospital of Monroe County will benefit from a series of symphony orchestra and chamber music concerts at beautiful Tamiment near Bushkill. Further details later . . . and still another from Betty Colvin, head of our Wyckoff corset department who announces that Jean Miller of the College, and Mrs. Doris Wagner of Stroudsburg, RD1, are the winners of our Gossard contest and will receive a 15.95 girdle.

This is Memorial Day weekend, so everyone will want SPORTSWEAR. Coordinate the family smartly with Jantzen sportswear from Wyckoff's! And be sure to see our beautiful windows showing some of the lovely handloomed casual attire—skirts, stoles, and 2-piece dresses—imported from Portugal, and selected by Mr. Wyckoff personally on his recent visit there. Remember too that Wyckoff's is open this THURSDAY night until 9. When you are in the store today and tomorrow, be sure to meet Miss Roann McComb, Exquisite Form stylist, who will gladly, and without obligation on your part, answer your questions on figure flattery.

Her sister, Mrs. Judy Christman of Leighton, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of mint green lace with matching jacket and a headpiece of fresh flowers, yellow pompons and red roses matching her bouquet.

Hahn Jr. of Kresgeville and Donald Eckhart of Kunkletown.

The reception was held in the firehall at Trachsville. The bridegroom is a member of the bride is a member of its Ladies Trachsville Fire Co. and the Aux.

OFF THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

BOB RICHARDS, one of the greatest Olympic heroes of all time is asking, "Can you do 20 push-ups? Can you chin yourself 10 times?"

Richards, head of the Wheaties sports federation which is pushing a program to get the nation's all-age groups in top physical condition, points his questions at boys 17 and over.

Bob, a preacher as well as one of our country's greatest athletes, says all boys 17 and over are supposed to be able to do 20 push-ups and chin themselves 10 times.

Richards who did everything at the last Olympics but sell tickets, has sent out to sports editors throughout the country an advance copy of the All-American Sports Fitness Tester which will give the nation an opportunity to check up on its physical fitness.

This mass testing, Richards says, is aimed to help us correct the alarming claim that American youths trail Europeans in physical fitness.

Recently in Tulsa, Okla., a fitness checkup revealed that boys from 8 to 14 failed to meet the standards of this testing chart while boys over 14 exceeded the standards—an indication there is a need for a program to pick up the slack before boys get into organized high school programs.

Working in conjunction with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, Richards' organization will distribute testers in every nook and corner of the Forty Eight.

Mass participation sports programs will be conducted in cities and towns everywhere, assistance will be given community groups in improving facilities, and a fitness week will help focus public attention on the subject and a "Junior Champ" sports program will be initiated.

The "breakfast of you know what" and its mother General Mills have top figures in the world of sports on its staff pushing Richards' idea across the nation. Among the notables is John Eiler, head soccer coach at East Stroudsburg Teachers College.

Eiler and the country's top athletic figures met in Minneapolis during the winter and formed plans which are now a reality. Actually the Physical Fitness program is a carry through of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's program which got its baptism of fire two years ago.

In the President's makeup, Harry Obitz, head golf professional of Shawnee Country Club, is eastern part of United States advisor.

With Ike's group plugging and Richards' federation carrying the ball, it looks like Physical Fitness will not be just hearsay but a must for our country's boys and girls.

It couldn't happen to a better bunch of people.

Want to learn about football when the State Belt was producing some of the finest players during the teens and twenties? Then talk to "Windy" Pritchard, now a Stroudsburg resident who came to town from Bangor, where he starred on some of the great teams of that era.

Pritchard, not one who is ever lost for words, can relate for hours stories of Ron Kichline, "Boots" Bonner, Haps Benfor, and now superintendent of Bangor schools Donald Keel and many others when the Bangor AA was taking on and beating the best around.

"We had tough competition in those days," Pritchard recalls. "The likes of Charley Berry, an All-American end at Lafayette and a few others in the present American League umpire's category were tough foes," says Pritchard.

However, while football is close to his heart, the greatest thrill "Windy" ever got was when he was in the Veterans Hospital at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City and was paid a visit by then President of the Philadelphia School of Pharmacy Ivor Griffith.

Griffith, acclaimed by many as Bangor's favorite son, took time out from his heavy schedule of duties—he is a noted speaker and writer of many books as well as one of the country's top pharmaceutical experts—to drop in and say hello to the convalescing Pritchard.

"Boy did I have the run of the place after Ivor came in. Those Army doctors just couldn't do enough for me when they found out that Ivor was a friend of mine," Pritchard reminisced.

How they stand

Hillers Halt Polk, 4-2

KRESGEVILLE — Chestnut-hill put over two runs in the eighth inning to trip Polk, 4-2, in a Monroe Scholastic League game here yesterday.

The setback placed Polk into second place in the league as it suffered its second loss in seven games.

Dick Serfass went all the way to pick up the mound verdict, limiting Polk to two hits. He also aided his own cause with a homer in the fourth inning.

Del Kresge was the hill victim, allowing five safeties, includes two by the Hillers' Harold Altomose.

Stags Win; Move Into District Play

GREENE-Dreher-Sterling yesterday defeated Hawley 16-2 in a contest at Hawley behind the pitching and hitting of Donald Olmster.

Olmster gave up two hits, and collected two triples and a double for himself. He went all the way in the game.

The win leaves GDS 4-1 in the Wayne County League. Therefore, they will play (as representatives of the Wayne County League) Tunikhanook under the lights Thursday night. The game will be played at Tunikhanook. It will decide the District 12 playoffs.

The winner of the game will then play Elk Lake for the District championship title.

VFW Wins On Cahn's Hit
In the seventh inning (overtime) gave Veterans of Foreign Wars a 3-2 victory over Wyckoff-Sears in a Stroudsburg Little League game last night.

Singles by Hulbert and Glen Bisbing set up Cahn's game-clincher in the seventh.

Cahn, in relief of Bisbing got the mound win, while R. Bush, speller of Frantz, took the loss. It was the Vets' second win, while the loss gave W-S a 1-1 log.

Frailey 1-Hits Tobyhanna, Hurls Pocono Into 1st

POCONO PINES—Paul Frailey tossed a one-hitter at Tobyhanna Township High here yesterday and hurled Pocono Twp. into first place temporarily in the Monroe Scholastic League. The final score was 10-0.

Frailey, touched for a single by leadoff batter Glen Dunlap in the opening frame, set down Tobyhanna without a hit the rest of the way.

He walked only one man and actually faced 22 batters officially over the seven innings. During his mound sojourn Frailey fanned 14.

Double, Triple
Larry Starnes and Frailey led the winners' attack with two hits each. Both of Starnes' blows were extra-basers—a double and triple.

Homers Lead P-K To 3rd

HOME runs by Harold Strunk and Tom Besecker powered Patterson-Kelley to a 19-10 victory over Lehigh Valley Dairy in an Industrial Softball League game last night.

The victory was the third straight for unbeaten P-K and enabled them to keep pace with Local 1724. The loss was Lehigh Valley's second in four tries.

Althea Gibson 6-2, 6-1 Victor
SURREY, England (AP)—Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson opened her 1958 European tennis campaign here Tuesday by defeating Mrs. Gerlie Preston of England 6-2, 6-1 in the Surrey Lawn tennis championships.

The 30-year-old New Yorker walked on court within a few hours of arriving from New York and quickly touched her best form. From 22 in the first set, she won seven games straight before the outclassed English player held service.

Dean of umpires in the Eastern League is Ernie Gigliello, 39, of Portage, Pa. This is his ninth season in the circuit.

Musial Faces Battle In Player Award Bid

CINCINNATI (AP)—Stan Musial made his 3,000th major league hit during the month of May but he doesn't figure to be a shoo-in for the National League's first player-of-the-month award.

Such players as San Francisco's Willie Mays and Mike McCormick; Pittsburgh's Frank Thomas and Ronnie Kline and Chicago's Taylor Phillips may give him a battle.

Starting this month, the National League will present a trophy to the player chosen by a representative group of baseball writers and broadcasters as the player-of-the-month.

Ballots Out
Ballots for the first award went out Tuesday from National League headquarters. Along with them went a list of 17 players who, off the cold, matter-of-fact average for the month, figure to receive consideration.

Dave Grote, service director for the league, made it plain that the list did not constitute nominations. He said it was sent along with figures compiled for the month just to help the writers and broadcasters make their selection.

Votes will be sent in after games of May 31 and the first winner will be announced June 3. Musial's feat of joining the exclusive group of batters with 3,000 hits already has been top baseball news this month and his average of .405 for games this month through Monday is tied among the 10 outfielders, infielders and catchers listed by the league.

But Mays and Thomas have him licked in home runs and runs batted in.

3-Man Tussle
In 21 games of May, Musial has 4 home runs and 15 runs batted in. Mays in 26 games has 12 home runs, 26 runs batted in and a .404 batting average. Thomas in 25 games has a .323 average with 10 home runs and 25 runs batted in. Perhaps the most surprising candidate among the pitchers is Chicago's Taylor Phillips, who figured in the deal that sent veteran Bob Rush to Milwaukee. In 47 innings this month Phillips has an earned run average of 1.72 and he has a 3-0 won and lost record.

STAR DRIVER—Buddy Powers, Philadelphia, United Racing Club sprint car star, who will appear on Friday, May 30, 2 p. m., at sprint car races in the Nazareth Fairgrounds.

Undefeated Scanlon Makes TV Debut Against Rogers

CHICAGO (AP)—Irish Bobby Scanlon, San Francisco lightweight undefeated in 28 pro bouts, makes his national TV boxing debut against Chicago's Bobby Rogers in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

The 10-round match will be telecast via ABC-TV beginning at 9 p. m., East.

Scanlon, who has won 27 bouts—10 by knockouts—and was held to one draw, is a physical education student at San Francisco City College.

Rogers, also 22 with a 15-4-3 ring record, is one of 13 children whose father owns a 500-acre farm in Hopkinsville, Ky.

4-Round Draw
The one draw marring Scanlon's otherwise perfect record was in a four-rounder against Frankie Madison, Sept. 20, 1954. Four months later, Scanlon whipped Madison in another four-rounder.

Rogers, who picked up boxing while serving with the 12th Air Force in 1952, has scored 7 knockouts in his 15 victories.

Russian High Jumping Shoes Banned

LONDON (AP)—The elevated high jumping shoe—used by Russians to break an American athletic monopoly—was declared illegal Tuesday and banned throughout the world.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation banning came as a complete surprise. No action was expected on the controversial thick-soled shoe until August when the IAAF meets in Stockholm.

The move means that Soviet high jumpers Yuri Stepanov, Vladimir Stikhin and Igor Kashkarov cannot use the shoes Russians officials devised for them during the United States-Soviet Union dual track and field meet in Moscow July 27-28.

Use of the shoe sometimes gave Russian jumpers as much as a one-inch advantage.

Stepanov made the world's highest record leap July 13, 1957 in Leningrad wearing a built-up shoe.

Failure to accept Stepanov's seven-foot, one-half inch in Los Angeles on June 29, 1956.
